The Drawing Room at Flemings Mayfair Hotel echoes elegance and grace in homage to the hotel's 18th century origins.

The refined Indian-inspired tea room welcomes guests and visitors to enjoy light refreshments and beverages all day or to imbibe wine and champagne at its small bar. The Drawing Room is also a perfect setting for a genteel afternoon tea. Working in partnership with Camellia's Tea House, guests may choose from a selection of different traditional and exotic teas including a signature Flemings blend.

The room's heritage is complemented by exquisite hand-painted wall panels by famous de Gournay depicting early views of India and 'The Tree of Life' by upcoming intuitive painter Eileen Schaer. Bookcases on either side of the fireplace display a fascinating collection of art books from Assouline for guests to enjoy and peruse.

Camellia's Tea House is an independent, family-run business in London, founded by siblings Lubna and Ajit Madan. What began as home tea blending has grown into a celebrated brand, known for its beautiful tea houses and some of the most innovative tea and wellness infusions in the industry.

Every blend is crafted from the finest whole-leaf teas, sustainably sourced in small batches to ensure freshness and exceptional quality.
